Sourcing Fairtrade, organic honey from Mexico

We source honey from Chiapas, in southern Mexico, where the versatile flora gives this honey its beautifully delicate aroma.

Helping communities

Indigenous farming communities in hard-to access villages sell their honey through an ethical cooperative, ensuring fair trading conditions. It also founded an independent women's group, to help the women of the native Tzeltal Tzozil people with smallholdings so they can earn their own income.

“Fair honey trading is very important as it means they are no longer solely reliant on coffee farming. As the honey is certified organic it means that the farmers and the bees are living on land not exposed to synthetic chemicals and so are as healthy as possible, an important part of our campaign to Help Save the Bees.”
